Faculty Of
The University.

Studying at the Department of English Studies at CITY College, International Faculty of The University of Sheffield in Thessaloniki, is a challenging journey to a successful future.

The Curricula of our BA (Hons) in "English Language and Linguistics" and MA in "Applied Linguistics with TESOL" have been designed particularly for language teachers, and teachers-to-be, who wish to gain a deep understanding of the English language as a basis for excellent teaching practice. Moreover, students attending our programmes from the early stages learn through a 'hands-on' approach combining theory and practical exploration in various areas of linguistics, while they can also get involved in research projects taking place in the Department.

University of Sheffield

The University Of Sheffield.

Whether candidates wish to gain professional development and enhance their career profile, or pursue MA and PhD studies, our programmes can help them fulfill their goals, as we offer students:

- A BA (Hons) or MA Degree awarded by the University of Sheffield -one of the top 100 Universities in the world;
- A thriving, dynamic, international atmosphere in state-of-the-art facilities located in the centre of Thessaloniki;

- * research; or
- * management positions in educational institutions, just to mention a few of them.

The University of Sheffield International Faculty, CITY College, is one of the six faculties within the British University and the only one operating overseas. Bridging the UK with the South East and Eastern Europe, the International Faculty offers to students the unique opportunity to study for a top class British degree of the University of Sheffield in Thessaloniki. CITY College is granted a license to operate by the Ministry of Education of Greece (www.citycollege.sheffield.eu).

We are ready and willing to provide all our undergraduate and postgraduate students with the skills and support services they need to grow academically, socially, and personally.

The programmes we offer at undergraduate and postgraduate levels attract students from a variety of backgrounds, wishing to pursue a range of careers: from those interested in academic and research-based courses, to more directly vocational degrees with professional accreditation. Our undergraduate alumni are eligible to attain graduate membership of the British Psychological Society, which is a major step towards becoming a Chartered Psychologist. This is needed for many professional careers in clinical, occupational and educational psychology, and students can complete the process with our postgraduate course in Counselling Psychology.

Students do not only learn the theory and practical skills needed for a career in psychology though, but other important skills such as interpersonal skills, excellent critical analysis, data handling, problem solving, time management, team work, and IT skills. This means students are prepared for a wide range of analysis therapist and a brain injury rehabilitation support worker to advertising, market research, human resources, teaching, management and academia.

The need for psychological services in hospitals, schools, private businesses, social service agencies, and mental health centres is expected to drive the growth of Psychology in the job market.

The Psychology department of the International Faculty of the University of Sheffield, CITY College in Thessaloniki (www.citycollege.sheffield.eu) aims at fostering a learning environment that encourages the development of scientific knowledge, research-led learning and active citizenship for students and staff, emphasizing lifelong learning and personal growth. Within this context, the Department cultivates a teaching and learning mentality characterized by a combination of theory and practice. The Department values the importance of intellectual, professional and ethical development, community service, cultural sensitivity and social responsibility.

The Department ensures an academic environment which puts the student at the center providing excellent level of research-led learning. We offer students a distinctly International experience, bringing together students from different parts of the world but mostly from the South East Europe. This International experience enriches learning and teaching at the department and allows students to develop cultural agility which is a key skill in the Global market. Since our very early days we believe that students need to acquire some practical experience in Psychology in a safe environment. Thus we offer to our students (mostly postgraduate) the opportunity to gain practical experience and exercise key counseling skills via the e-help (online counseling service), and the community counseling service.
